How to put Purple indicators into operation in OS X (Mac)

Purple Indicators are part of compulsory equipment used for tackling down of Technical Analysis. And the amount of purple traders who are using them is on the rise. You can try them for free on either real or demo accounts. This tutorial will show you how.

But before we start, we have to mention that traders using MacOS face a little more complicated situation as the developers of MetaTrader platform do not offer an official version of MT4 for OS X. Therefore, OS X traders have two options, thanks to which you can put Purple Indicators into operation in such operating systems.

New MacOS Catalina does not support 32-bit applications, so this OS does not even support the installation of MetaTrader.
